

Earth Sanctuary

A 21st century blueprint for human & planetary
wellbeing, sustainability and evolution

Introduction

Humanitad is launching the International Earth Sanctuary project as a dynamic and replicable blueprint which can directly address the socio-economic failures of our current 'civilizational' model. The objective is to explore where and how we can ignite a new conscious framework within which humanity and its diverse socio-cultural values may prosper in a decentralized and harmonious way. The blueprint is inviting a new relationship to emerge between conscious communities and the nation-states within which they evolve.

Current 'civilizational' socio-cultural constructs, economies, education systems and our very ability to evolve are pegged to war and usury - exploitation of the many by the few. This is clearly untenable and the melt-down we see unfolding across the globe in all primary areas of human exchange demand to be addressed from an invigorated perspective - not from the self-serving perspectives which have fostered the crises. We are facing one of two options - either a 'hard-landing' or a 'soft-landing'. The outcome will entirely depend on our ability to creatively engage with imagining a 'new world' into manifestation.

The Earth Sanctuary model will serve as a life-line as well as a brave and pioneering opportunity to re-fashion our societies and our lives. They will not be places where people hide from 'hard reality'. They are places where people will be able to 'step outside' the mass illusions which destroy communities and ecosystems by an outdated and over-centralized monoculture. Sanctuaries will emerge as places where people can begin to study and live in the 'real reality' that most of us are too busy to notice and yet ought to be our true birthright.

Earth Sanctuaries will evolve as semi-autonomous nation-by-nation community 'protectorates' which will find one another across national and cultural borders and begin to emerge as a pan-global human family.

This 'supra-national' and 'supra-cultural' global movement will flourish as a self-determining conscious and sustainable framework for all humanity - serving our higher purpose and fulfilling our higher aspirations. The Earth Sanctuary project is a planetary social experiment with extraordinary possibilities.

Why should Governments support Earth Sanctuaries?

For the same reason that they support seed banks and other pools of genetic and cultural diversity. And because they can begin to provide stability and solve problems.

The problem that Earth Sanctuaries can address

Global markets and the World Trade Organization may foster seemingly efficient trading and the Global Pharma companies and World Health Organization may foster seemingly efficient penetration. However, such power blocks create restrictive economic, health and ideological mono-cultures under the guise of 'harmonisation'.

Introduction ctd/...

The results of the 'efficient' cotton mono-cultures in the dust bowl of America and in the Aral Sea testify to this failure. We see the lack of stability and vulnerability to disease of mono-culture grain and plant crops, fish farms and chicken farms. We also see regression and instability in societies which continue to follow a political mono-culture.

Long haul passenger jets, global pandemics and 'climate-change' make it clear to everyone that we live in a finite world. It should therefore also be clear that a harmonised world economic system that depends on constant growth must have an end date. Growth requires more consumption by more people - but we have a finite world - it is as simple as that.

The way that Earth Sanctuaries can help solve the problem.

We can either regroup back into isolated nations, which will lead to war and regression, or we can find new ways for societies and nations to co-operate and interact. Earth Sanctuaries scattered across the globe can co-operate and interact as microcosms of the nations in which they reside.

How governments can support Earth Sanctuaries

In many ways: by granting concessionary land where possible, by permitting certain freedoms, by supporting the expatriot communities with concessionary visa status where possible, by leaving these communities alone and observing what happens. Groups of people will come together and invest their own savings to build homes, schools, clinics and communities, livelihoods and dreams. Whilst criminal activity will obviously not be tolerated, administrative laws and regulations that channel people into the national mono culture should not apply either. Self-policing of anti-social behaviour is the only way that is proven to work at the decentralised level.

Earth Sanctuaries are intended as self-administering free trade and free thought zones whose purpose is to devise and test new means of human interaction. Some may fail - but the Earth Sanctuary International community will learn from each others mistakes and benefit from each others advances. The planetary social-network (HumaniSphere) will ensure an integrated and cohesive platform for delivering on this.

For most of us living in the cultural and economic mono-culture it is very hard to imagine what any viable alternative would look like until we see it. That is the mission of the Sanctuaries. Investment funds commonly put up to 5% of their resources into risky investments and companies put more into R & D. Earth Sanctuaries will be inviting nations to put one thousandth of one percent of GDP into this planetary social and economic Research & Development project - on the back of initial successes.

Overview

Conscious evolution is demanding a reorientation of the relationship between humanity and nature - with technology playing an increasingly important role in this integration. People have a universal right to happiness and to a life based on creative expression and fulfilment. Wage-slavery is not an acceptable paradigm - and it is a failing model.

The Humanitad Earth Sanctuary is being developed as an international blueprint of excellence and best practise in the arts, sciences and modes of sustainable and conscious living.

The Sanctuaries and their evolving communities of creatively inspired residents and visitors will explore this synthesis and become a global network for such manifestation. In this spirit - they will invite and attract resonant world citizens, ethical business, NGOs and governments to become part of a great international 'civilizational' experiment.

Earth Sanctuaries will emerge as protected idyllic environments for the emergence of communities committed to defining and promulgating new models of sustainable and joyful self-determination.

The Sanctuary modus and template will be syndicated across the globe creating a planetary network of like-minded communities. These international Sanctuaries will define a new global 'Independent State of Being'.

Humanitad and international partners and affiliates will work closely with regional and central governments as well as with diverse UN and multilateral agencies to orchestrate a global 'umbrella' of protection and safe-guard for the Sanctuaries.

Where social and geopolitical unrest, coupled with global economic breakdown and uncertainty threaten to drive our world further along the 'war-economy' trajectory - the Earth Sanctuary blueprint defines a new 'social contract' between people and governments. More importantly it describes a path for humanity to enter into a new contract with itself - one which invites each of us to become conscious co-creators of the world we wish to live in.

This is the invitation which our planetary state of uncertainty is offering - and one which we need to respond to now.

Engaging the world

The network of Earth Sanctuaries intend to become the world's most inspired model for integrated societies based on 'consciousness-in-action...

International 'safe harbours' inviting innovation & creativity - whilst highlighting planetary 'best-practices'

Earth Sanctuaries will be oriented as international exemplar pilot programs. They will needfully acknowledge the UN Millennium Development Goals. These goals - signed up to by all world nations - describe the areas most affecting humanity and most in need of focus, encompassing: poverty, education, equality, sustainability, health and welfare. Where these goals arguably fall short - is in failing to acknowledge consciousness. Sanctuaries will therefore observe consciousness as being the driver to any and all lasting change and be unashamed in their recognition of the fact.

The Sanctuaries will address planetary macro-concerns from a fresh and inclusive perspective - not confining research and development of ideas and solutions in conformity with the constraints of a limited technocratic world mind-set.

Revivifying large areas of land which lie on the fringes of the existing 'grid' system - and turning these areas into thriving communities and centres of sustainability and creative output will do much to enhance the standing of regional and central governments. They will also address social, infrastructural, health, education and welfare concerns of nations of the world in a new and invigorated manner.

Earth Sanctuaries will immediately be recognized as projects of international importance, of media interest and a focus for all planetary movements working toward sustainable-living as well as eco-consciousness. As holistic real-life demonstrations of sustainability and community integration, the Earth Sanctuaries intend to become the world's most inspired model for integrated societies based on 'consciousness-in-action'.

They will interact with other international Sanctuaries via an 'open-source' network of sharing, funding, trading and support. The Sanctuaries will interface with the world via seminars, workshops, conferences and ongoing expositions.

They will be exemplary ecological, educational and healing zones - receiving visitors from around the globe.

In manifesting prosperous and conscious communities of thriving people in a world which is historically attuned to the notions of scarcity and sectarianism will present the emergence of a new and timely paradigm-shift for our planet.

Interdependent state of being

Earth Sanctuaries will emerge as a worldwide network of communities connecting across and beyond all imposed divides..

Redefining the human journey

Earth Sanctuaries will become hubs of ethical-trading & green commerce whilst promoting the imperative of a 'global commons'

Exploring a conscious relationship between humanity, our biosphere and technological evolution..

International 'free-zones' promulgating our clean & sustainable (Exemplar-Zero Initiative) energy, ecological-housing, waste recycling and water purification technologies

The Exemplar-Zero Initiative is offering all Earth-Sanctuary members select breakthrough technologies to kick-start the necessary revenue-streams required to fund and maintain the sanctuaries.

We have the technology and the capacity to install pure water powered generators or to retrofit all existing power generators of any kind - to ensure the heating, lighting and energy needs of the Sanctuary communities in perpetuity. Disconnecting from the need to pay utility bills and inflation-pegged energy and fuel costs will instantly create an 'abundance' oriented society as opposed to a 'scarcity' based one - which describes the current civilisational model.

Ethical Trade & Commerce will focus on spotlighting breakthrough technologies and innovations in a secure-haven environment – making Earth Sanctuaries a trusted intermediary between industry, government and innovators on the ground.

With Humanitad's growing international brain-trust of leading scientists, academics, analysts and economists along with the network of NGOs and United Nations agencies we are well positioned to devising appropriate pathways for bringing these emergent solutions and technologies into the mainstream.

Renewable energy investment and carbon credit trading & exchange

The Sanctuaries will emerge as locations where people will come as either visitors or residents, yet remain 'hard-wired' to the outside world in order to facilitate and encourage such ethical business, trading and commerce.

As these productive havens develop we will work closely with regional and central governments to invite tax and other concessions in order to attract appropriate participation and inclusion within the Sanctuary communities.

We envision a cashless world and will be developing this zero-point economic model as the Earth Sanctuaries evolve.

Earth Sanctuaries will explore conscious architecture and permaculture and benefit from the deployment of leading technologies and solutions in sustainable living....

Exploring the circle of life

By re-orienting our relationship with the world and with each other we can change the world in a single generation...

Healing & Wellness Focus

These centres will address medicine and health prioritizing on the patient and consumer perspective and can expect to attract a growing market pegged directly to their rates of success. These are expected to become considerably higher than any national average as we will be inviting the spectrum of healing practices often dismissed by allopathic medicine largely linked to commercial interests. Failing health models in nations across the globe are testimony to a dire state of affairs - solutions need to be arrived at. The 'wellbeing centres' will invite Health Ministries, Universities and independent watchdogs to participate in exploring such solutions.

The key foci of the Wellness Centres will be: performance enhancement, resolution of chronic health problems using cutting-edge methods and the research & development of new advances in the healing arts.

The Art of Birthing and Dying

A seminal aspect to the Earth Sanctuaries will be a conscious focus on the art of 'birthing' and 'dying'. Integrated environments for birthing and dying will be incorporated into the grounds of each Sanctuary. It is critical that we begin to integrate these seminal gateways of the human journey into our reality framework. It is an extraordinary fact that at a time in our 'human-story' where we can best be described as an 'unconscious civilization' we largely choose to ignore the true majesty of the 'entry' and 'exit' of life into our world.

The Earth Sanctuary Blueprint will explore and facilitate the 'art of living and dying' and will do so with a keen attitude. A dignified and peaceful death in an environment which is conducive to spiritual retreat and resonant with nature and conscious loving carers, family and friends - should be the most aspirational tenet of a society. Similarly - the conscious birthing and reception of souls into our world should be our most urgent and focused art.

Our entire world with all of it's traumas and scars can shift and evolve into an unimaginable paradise in a couple of short generations via conscious birthing. But we must engage this process with a fearless and focused undertaking.

Happiness as our true wealth

Earth Sanctuary communities across the globe will reclaim independent lifestyle, happiness and creativity as their true purpose, wealth and sovereign birthright

Live..work..and play..

The self-sufficient housing, landscaping and agricultural orientation of the Sanctuaries will adhere to time-honored and trusted principles enshrined in practices such as Vastu, Ayurveda, Feng Shui and Permaculture. Sanctuaries will differ in scale in accordance with the land mass, sustainability-model and community requirements in each case. Average communities can expect to stabilize anywhere between 250 to 500 residents, with larger models growing anywhere between 1500 and 2000.

They will, where possible - be registered as 'eco-towns', 'eco-villages' or 'eco-reservations'. They will - where possible - be self-policing, and they will not be confined to conforming with the norms of monetary exchange and control.

1) The first phase of the developments will emerge as Reception Villas and lodgings for staffing, project management teams and key visitors who are exploring involvement with the Sanctuaries. Visitors will include various experts and project advisors, investors, sponsors and prospective residents - as well as select media and exchange visitors.

2) The second phase of the developments will emerge in accordance with the initial raft of community-residents and their preferences for housing and lodging.

Prospective residents will be able to choose plots of land from a portfolio of options which will be displayed virtually on-line via the Sanctuary portals or at the Sanctuaries administration headquarters in-situ.

Various terms and conditions will apply and there will be a number of 'purchase' options - for those able or willing to invest in a Sanctuary home.

These prospective residents will be able to select from a wide portfolio of housing options - all ecologically sustainable and self-sufficient. In-house architects will be on-hand - able to tailor housing to specific requirements and budgets. The Sanctuaries will also house builders, electricians, plumbers, gardeners and maintenance supervisors etc... many of them offering their trade in exchange for Sanctuary residency.

Putting humans before systems

Redefining the relationship between people and exchange...

3) Community residents who do not have money or savings may qualify as visitor-residents in exchange for their time and energy. They may be matched and settled within the community as it best suits their skills and orientation, ie: cooking, cleaning, gardening, organic farming, animal husbandry, teaching along with a host of other vocations.

Communal lodgings will be developed to accommodate transient residents, exchange residents (visiting from other Sanctuaries) and approved visitors who may have little or no money but who wish to integrate into the communities.

Such community residents may choose to barter and exchange their services and expertise within the community pool. This will be a self-regulating platform and human-resources market-place for ensuring and maintaining a full spectrum micro-society.

It is a cruel irony in the 'real-world' that all too often our most creative thinkers are disenfranchised from the mainstream because what they have to offer is not a recognized 'commodity'. And not being able to monetize their specialization or talent can relegate them to poverty and ignominy. This is a dysfunctional appreciation of humanity which the Earth Sanctuaries will seek to redress within their inclusive communities.

Human beings do not function well when they are enslaved to 'systems' which rob them of their creative expression and freedom of choice. In entering and becoming accepted within the embrace of an Earth Sanctuary - individuals will be invited to thrive within an environment which is not directly pegged to income and wage-slavery. This model will work provided their creative output fulfils the manpower balance of the growing communities. It does not take a lifetime to learn bricklaying - but a happy bricklayer will build a good house. It does not take a lifetime to learn how to grow tomatoes - but an earnest individual embraced within a watchful and self-policing community will grow them well.

To put this into perspective: 'reputation credits' and 'goodwill credits' should and must emerge as a real and tangible currency in our world. Rather than being a reckless and idealistic attitude - this in fact offers a very real antidote to the current 'real-world' war-economy trajectory which is driving more disease, poverty and suffering on earth than at any time in history.

Manifesting a life worth living

Reminding governments that they are mandated to serve citizens... and reminding citizens of their duty to engage with manifesting the world they desire..
